This is probably the worst thing I have seen so far.

You can't spell hypocrisy without psycho!

Please read this article recently published online in the Toronto Star and written by Health Reporter Megan Ogilvie and Staff Reporter May Warren. You can simply read my screenshots if you've been subjected to inflation. To summarize, one Torontonian Dr. Sun claims to have put HIS neck on the line by illegally and unethically injecting 500 infants (children <5) with COVID-19 products that are now proven entirely obsolete against Omicron, in order to protect them from Omicron. Sounds informed and up-to-date, doesn't he?

'I put my neck on the line': Toronto doctor vaccinated hundreds of kids under 5 "off label"

Parents are awaiting a COVID vaccine for kids. One doctor said he had "ethically no reason to say no."

Here's the article. It's short.

A Toronto physician has vaccinated hundreds of children under five — some as young as six months old — against COVID-19, despite the vaccine not being authorized by Health Canada for this age group.

The Star has learned public health officials stepped in after they discovered Dr. Christopher Sun, a family doctor in Weston-Mount Dennis, was giving COVID vaccines to ineligible children.

In a conversation with the Star, Sun said he gave the COVID vaccine to about 500 kids between the ages of six months and five years during a three-month span, a decision he said he made "to protect children."

Sun, who believes he was "one of the only people in Ontario" vaccinating children under five, said he felt compelled to give the COVID vaccine "off label" to this age group after some parents asked to ask for the shot in front of him. They told him they wanted to protect their families during the Omicron wave.

"I put my neck on the line and did what I wanted to get done, which was to protect children," he said in an interview. Health Canada has not approved any COVID vaccines for children under five.

The parents who came to him "understood the benefits and risks," Sun said, and he felt he "ethically had no reason to say no." One shot quickly turned to more as word got around.

"These are worried parents in time of a health crisis and I think it's wrong to turn away people who know what they are getting into," he added.

In March, Toronto Public Health told him to stop vaccinating kids under five and reported him to the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario, said Sun, adding he still vaccinated this age group until the end of that month.

He felt he "ethically had no reason to say no'. Say 'no' to whom? To the parents? Were those parents signing consent forms for their children? How about liability waivers? How about CAERS reports in the case where one of those 500 infants was injured? If this person was up-to-date in the slightest, or had any ethical bearing, he would have let the concerned parents know that there was nothing to be concerned about, and if their children got a runny nose to give them soup and orange juice.

As life usually has it, this has 'come up' at the same time that I have been given the go-ahead to speak at yet another VRBPAC meeting: "Vaccines and Related Biological Products Advisory Committee June 14-15, 2022 Meeting Announcement", to discuss injecting 6 month-old babies-4 year-olds with the Pfizer and Moderna COVID-19 injectable products.

> On June 15, 2022, under Topic II, the committee will meet in open session to discuss amending the EUA of the Moderna COVID-19 mRNA vaccine to include the administration of the primary series to infants and children 6 months through 5 years of age, and also to discuss amending the EUA of the Pfizer-BioNTech COVID-19 mRNA vaccine to include the administration of the primary series to infants and children 6 months through 4 years of age.

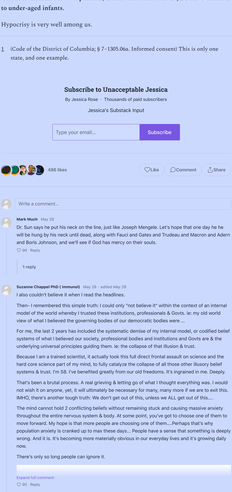
Really? Amending the EUA huh? Wow. Doesn't that mean that these products being discussed are still not FDA-approved? Why, yes it does!

So far, VAERS corroborates that it is not just MDs like Sun (ironic name, wuh?) breaking every ethical code that we have; it is random administrators of the injections in the United States. And likely, all over the world. I have prepared a few slides already for this upcoming VRBPAC meeting and I will share a couple of them with you here. 1,832 adverse events have been reported to VAERS for infants 0-5 years of age as of May 27, 2022. The following bar plot shows the data for 0-5 year-olds by dose. Not all of the children have dose data as indicated by N. You'll note that some of these children have been injected 3 times (blue).

No where in the world have 'approval' or 'permission' to inject infants from ages 0-5 been granted as of this date May 27th, 2022. NO WHERE.

The most frequently reported adverse event in each age group is "Incorrect dose administered". In the SYMPTOM_TEXT column is VAERS, it is common to see that children are being injected with products that haven't been properly diluted prior to injection. I wrote an entire Substack on this. Read this: "Was given the wrong dose (20 mg instead of 10 mcg) of the Pfizer vaccine". This repeats. It is also common to see that children are being injected at inappropriate ages. I also wrote a Substack on this.

Below is a bar plot that shows the adverse events being reported at 'higher' rates (more than 5 reports for each adverse event) for 0-5 year-olds. It is plain to see that the 2 highest ospoies involved admission of screwing up the 'dose' and/or the 'age'. Apologies for this ugly plot. I don't believe in altering labels.



Look. Sunny boy. It doesn't matter if you think that these products are safe or effective. It doesn't. What matters is that these products have not been approved - EUA or otherwise - for infants. THEY HAVE NOT. There is a process, you see. That is meant to be followed.

IT'S NOT UP TO YOU.

Clearly our medical doctors are being punished - YES PUNISHED (i.e.: Ira Bernstein/Crystal Luchkiw/Meryl Nass - just to name a few of the medical doctors that I know personally) - for prescribing safe, Nobel prize winning, off label PILLS - so why does this guy get to INJECT off-label experimental products into infants and not get punished? I bet you that nothing will happen to this guy. No medical license suspension. They'll probably give him an award for being 'brave'.

Although I know very well that the stand-in bureaucrats are using our ethical Codes, Oaths, Constitutions and Charters as toilet paper, this particular episode by Sun is in clear violation of informed consent law and classifies as Medical Malpractice if any of these children are (seriously) harmed as a result of his condemnable and reckless behaviour. So even though Pfizer and Moderna are not liable, the medical practitioners and administrators ARE, in the case of injury. Maybe these doctors need to start being made to fear something else for a change: litigation from angry parents who were misled, for example.[1]

Whenever I go into one of these Substacks, or anything really, I try to put myself in the shoes of all. In this case: the parents, the children, the Toronto Star writers and this doctor. This guy, Dr. Sun. Man, I can't even do it. Even if he's right, and these products in the experimental phase of their life-span turn out to be completely harmless, he still cannot inject infants prior to approval of these products. He cannot. This is beyond me. The parents were either completely misled or simply decidedly uninformed due to lack of caring, and this is also horrific since it is the child that will suffer if an injury occurs. The children? Well, you know how I feel about that. You can't make an informed decision if you are 2 or 3 or 4, can you?

For litigators: If Sun is exempt from liability claims in case of harm due to these injections then so should all medical doctors be in case of harm due to prescription of IVM or medical exemptions to protect from anaphylactic events.

And if practicing medical doctors, with decades of experience, excellent reputations and thousands of patients are stripped of their licenses for giving 'off-label' medicine to their patients, then so must the ones INJECTING off-label to under-aged infants.

Hypocrisy is very well among us.

Dr. Sun says he put his neck on the line, just like Joseph Mengele. Let's hope that one day he he will be hung by his neck until dead, along with Fauci and Gates and Trudeau and Macron and Ardern and Boris Johnson, and we'll see if God has mercy on their souls.

I also couldn't believe it when I read the headlines.
Then- I remembered this simple truth: I could only "not believe it" within the context of an internal model of the world whereby I trusted these institutions, professionals & Govts. ie. my old world view of what I believed the governing bodies of our democratic bodies were ....
For me, the last 2 years has included the systematic demise of my internal model, or codified belief systems of what I believed our society, professional bodies and institutions and Govts are & the underlying universal principles guiding them. ie. the collapse of that illusion & trust.
Because I am a trained scientist, it actually took this full direct frontal assault on science and the hard core science part of my mind, to fully catalyze the collapse of all those other illusory belief systems & trust. I'm 58. I've benefitted greatly from our old freedoms. It's ingrained in me. Deeply.
That's been a brutal process. A real grieving & letting go of what I thought everything was. I would not wish it on anyone, yet, it will ultimately be necessary for many, many more if we are to exit this. IMHO, there's another tough truth: We don't get out of this, unless we ALL get out of this....
The mind cannot hold 2 conflicting beliefs without remaining stuck and causing massive anxiety throughout the entire nervous system & body. At some point, you've got to choose one of them to move forward. My hope is that more people are choosing one of them... Perhaps that's why population anxiety is cranked up to mas these days... People have a sense that something is deeply wrong. And it is. It's becoming more materially obvious in our everyday lives and it's growing daily now.
There's only so long people can ignore it.
